AMERICAN CATHOLICS LOYAL.

Speaking of the great progress being made by the Catholic Church in the United States, the Archbishop of Buffalo, says that of Monsignor O'Connell,oadjutor Archbishop of Boston, in an address to a readers' circle in that city contrasted the loyalty of the laity to the Church in this country as against the indifference in European countries. The Archbishop dwelt upon the blessings of living in a land where the Catholic faith is as strong as here, and where loyalty to the Church is still so much a principle in the lives of the people. Commenting on this, our contemporary says: "The Archbishop is certainly striking, and his declaration of thought not only for his fellow-citizens of other faiths but for all Americans. The free air of America the Catholic Church has made wonderful progress, and this, as the Archbishop indicated, not alone materially but spiritually, until at the present time in no country on earth are there such a loyal and well-disposed citizenry as in the United States."

EXCELLENT ADVICE.

President Roosevelt attended the exercises at Georgetown University in Washington, D. C., conferring the degrees gave graduates some excellent advice. Among other things he said: "I was much pleased today not to be able to give degrees, but to give prizes, in at least one case to students who had evidently been endeavoring to develop a thoroughly sound mind in an exceptionally sound body. I believe in athletics, but I believe in them chiefly because of the moral qualities that they develop. I am glad to see the man who keeps his nerve in a close baseball game, able to keep his courage under the punishment of a football game or in a four-mile boat race; because if the boy really amounts to anything and has got the right stuff in him, this means that he is strong to keep his nerve and his courage in more important things after life. If your prowess is simply due to the possession of big muscles, it does not amount to much. What counts is the ability to back up the muscles with the right spirit. When you come out into after life, I can say no more than to wish you to copy the motto which should be the motto of every boy who plays on a college eleven: 'Don't flinch, don't foul, and hit the line hard.'"

JOHN QUINN'S ABILITY.

Dr. Douglas Hyde has taken $50,000 to Ireland as the result of his lecture tour in America in behalf of the Gaelic League. It was money well earned, but he did not have secured one-fourth of that amount had it not been for the ability and energy of John Quinn, of New York, Secretary of the Gaelic League in the United States. It was this New York Irish-American who laid the plans and mapped out the tour for Dr. Hyde. He began his work in May, 1905, six months before the celebrated Gaelic scholar landed in America, and arranged every detail of his visit to each city. Besides that he made arrangements for the thirty university and college lecturers returned to Ireland his personal possessions were four books, of 100 pages each, with newspaper clippings relating to his triumphal tour. Mr. Quinn is a wonder and the Irish people at home and abroad believe that he will be fully rewarded both in this world and the next.

SOAKED ICE DEALERS.

Five Toledo ice dealers were each $5,000 and given one year in the workhouse for conspiracy in restraint of trade. The culprits are all prominent in business and social circles. Under the pretext that the ice supply was smaller than in recent years they advanced prices from 50 to 100 per cent. Judge Kinkade, who passed judgement on the cases, stated that the sentences might be mitigated in the event the ice dealers made restitution to customers for overcharges. Fortunately for Louisville, no such condition of affairs is likely to exist here. The establishment of the American Ice and Cold Storage Company precludes any effort to maintain an ice trust in this city.

RELIEF FOR PUBLIC.

The general public will rejoice to learn that President Roosevelt has signed the bill authorizing the city of St. Louis to build, operate and maintain a railroad, wagon and foot passenger bridge across the Mississippi river at that point. St. Louis has two bridges, but both are in control of a terminal association that charges exorbitant rates and practically compels shippers from the East to make East St. Louis the destination of freight intended for that city. This terminal association has gouged the merchants and manufacturers for years. Congress took the matter in hand and a new bridge will be the result.

Archbishop Keane, of Dubuque, Iowa, preached the baccalaureate sermon to the students of the Dubuque University, and the papers of that city declare it was the finest and most forceful discourse ever addressed to graduates of that institution. The Rev. Father M. I. Strich, S. J., delivered the address to graduates of the Omaha High School, and the Omaha Bee says his address abounded in rich thought and his words were embellished with rhetoric of the finer quality. These two events caused the editor of the Buffalo Catholic Union and Times to remark: "The West is waking up splendidly. There are hundreds of priests in the East, incomparable orators, deep thinkers, fine scholars. None of course is suffering from an invitation, but any one of them could give many pointers on entertaining topics which students can get from any other source. The East is decidedly effete."

Now that the "lid is on tight" on Sundays, it ought to be up to the Governor and other authorities to rigorously enforce the law against carrying concealed deadly weapons. Louisville has suffered from a series of crimes recently, and all were brought about by a breach of this law. Entirely too much license is allowed men who want to carry revolvers and knives. More harm is done by the practice of carrying pistols than was ever done by saloons, whether open or closed on Sunday.

Out of the 875 saloons in Louisville not more than half a dozen of the proprietors have attempted to violate the Sunday closing law. This speaks well for these men; they are trying to uphold the law, but they have no sympathy with Magistrate Hoffman and his efforts to make the Sunday closing movement odious.

Everybody is interested in securing a national convention for Louisville, and definite steps have been taken to bring the grand gathering of Democrats to this city in 1908. The new armory is just the place for it. There is no finer hall in the country and the acoustics are well nigh perfect.

New York Irishmen are planning to erect a costly monument to the memory of Michael Davitt. Might it not be just as well to raise a fund for his widow and children? They are not well off in this world's goods.

James Duffy, formerly of this city, but for the last six years a resident of San Antonio, is now sojourning in Chicago. He spent home coming week in Louisville and remained over long enough to shake hands with his old friends at Mackin's outing. En route home from the Windy City he will spend several days in Louisville.

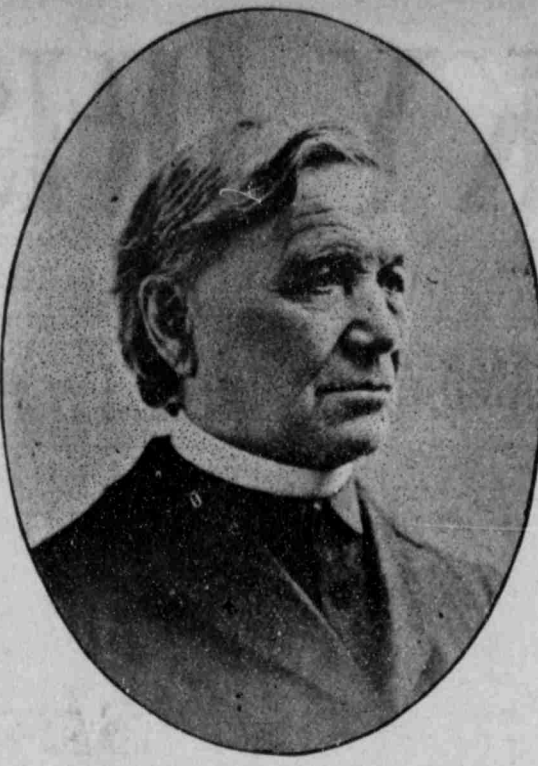

Miss Anna O'Malley and John Breen were united in matrimony by the Rev. Father O'Connell, pastor of St. Augustine's church, Jeffersonville, during the present week. On account of the recent death of the groom's mother the wedding was a very quiet one. Both young people are deservedly popular in Jeffersonville Catholic circles.

A pretty wedding was that which united Miss Everilde Specht and Joseph T. Kelly for life. It was performed by the Rev. Father Heenan, O. P., at St. Louis Bertrand's church on Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The bridal party was entertained at the home of the bride's father, George Specht, and later Mr. and Mrs. Kelly left for Knoxville, where the groom holds a responsible position.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Key were the hosts at a delightful reception given Friday evening in honor of Miss Mary O'Hern, a charming little visitor from Indianapolis. SILVER JUBILEE.

Rev. Father Hayes Celebrates Twenty-Fifth Anniversary as Priest.

The Rev. Father Thomas J. Hayes, of Bowling Green, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of his ordination in that city on Tuesday. The jubilarian celebrated solemn high mass, with the Right Rev. Bishop McCloskey and more than 100 priests in attendance. The Rev. Father Charles P. Raffo, of this city, a warm personal friend of Father Hayes, preached the sermon.

The jubilarian is a native of Ireland, but finished his ecclesiastical studies in Louisville at Preston Park Seminary. He was ordained at the same time that the Rev. Father Thomas White, of St. Frances of Rome church, and the Rev. Father Lawrence Ford, of St. Patrick's church, were elevated to the dignity of the priesthood.

Father Hayes is an eloquent pulpit orator, an able financier and a man of great executive ability. His friends in Bowling Green hope that he will be spared to them for another twenty-five years. The celebration was brought to a close with a banquet.

LANDS GOOD PLAGE.

Patrick G. King, one of the best known young Irish-Americans in the city, has accepted a position with James Greene, the well known dealer in furniture, carpets, stoves and ranges. Mr. King played the title role in "Shaun Aroon," the performance recently given by the Geraldine Dramatic Club. He makes friends wherever he goes and is quite an acquisition to Mr. Greene's large and intelligent force of clerks and solicitors.
